

Business and the Kingdom: Integrating Faith and Work

Pause, Recalibrate, Worship

7th November 2020

	Morning workshops	Leaders	Leader biographies	Workshop summary
1	Sustainable Business Leadership in Unstable Times	Malcolm Forsyth	After 34 years in chemicals, latterly focussed on sustainability, Malcolm now provides consultancy alongside Church of England lay ministry, charity trusteeship and birdwatching.	2020 has challenged business leaders to address short-term crises and long-term risks like climate change. Malcolm will explore how Christian leaders might respond to these dual challenges and show sustainable leadership in uncertain and unstable times.
2	Worship through work in recruitment and education	Joelle and Andrew Warren	Joelle's biography can be found on the main flyer. Andrew has been a leader in education since 1985. He is currently the Regional Schools Commissioner for the West Midlands, responsible for 2,700+ schools. He loves coaching leaders, leading worship, and preaching, skiing, and climbing mountains.	Joelle and Andrew Warren follow up Joelle's talk with a look at their own working lives. Includes extensive Q&A opportunity.
3	Work as worship in people development	John Crossan	John is a husband, dad, coach, and Talent Development Partner at NG Bailey: putting purpose, meaning and values at the heart of people development.	Take time to think differently about personal development – yours, and that of your people. Who are you called to be, what are you called to do, and how does your deepest sense of purpose sit alongside your worship and notion of service?
4	Life after loss: finding hope, healing and help amidst the ups and downs of life	Faye Smith	Faye has lost marriage, husband, family business, home, and most tragic of all, her daughter. Only her faith and circle of intimates has allowed her to find a place of slow healing and restoration where she can seek to experience the Father anew and rediscover his love.	Whatever your loss, you will get chance to hear a little of Faye's story and what has helped her on the journey. And – if you wish – share a little of yours, so together we may find ways to live well amidst sadness and loss.
5	The Impact of Christian Workplace Groups on Business	Ann Cheung	Ann is an Ambassador for Transform Work UK. She is the Lead Coach at Get Soaring Limited and has a heart to encourage, equip and enable Christians to live-out their calling and grow the Kingdom of God. She is a chartered civil engineer.	Bringing the Culture of Heaven into your organisation through connecting, supporting, and equipping Christians – together we can achieve more!

6	Working From Home: Work, Wellbeing and Worship	Ella and Peter Smith	Self-employed since 2013, Ella is gradually mastering the art of multi-tasking around Toby the cockerpoo – and Peter. Peter is a chartered surveyor turned social enterpriser, striving from home since 2017. He is co-founder of Business Friends Club and Skipton Wellbeing Café.	An interactive discussion around the varied joys and challenges of working from home, with time to pray and encourage one another.
7	Recalibrating what it means to serve God – how can I do it in my business?	Paul Chandler	Paul is non-executive director of the Co-op Group, and was formerly CEO of Traidcraft and of SPCK, the publisher / mission agency.	Paul will reflect on how two Christian businesses adopted new approaches to fulfilling their mission, and whether participants' experience of personal and organisational change offer lessons for Christians in any business.
8	What about the rest?	Nathan Dring	Nathan is a husband, father, and small business owner. In all those things he is passionate about people finding their purpose and fulfilling their potential.	A combination of reflection, conversation, and story to consider 'Sabbath' - how we hear that word and how to have Sabbath-fuelled lives.
9	The challenges of faith in the world of law.	Elizabeth and Adam Wilson	Elizabeth is a partner with Wrigleys Solicitors in Leeds, specialising in property for commercial, religious and charity clients. Adam is a barrister, specialising in the financial aspects of family breakdown.	Elizabeth and Adam will talk about being Christians and lawyers: how being a Christian comes first with helpful texts; principles for professional life; service in practice. There will be plenty of time to ask questions and share experiences.
10	Finding your work in your purpose	Anna and Wills Crump	Anna and Wills work in finance and law respectively in Leeds. Both are passionate about seeing God's Kingdom growing in business through Christians working in influential roles and exemplifying Kingdom values. They run a networking group for Christians in business and professional services.	Anna and Wills don't agree with the implicit assumption that our work fundamentally serves little kingdom purpose. They will facilitate delegates to explore their kingdom purpose and help attendees consider how God is already using their work for His kingdom and how they can partner with Him in the future.
